

Subject: Re: Thermonuclear disaster-Russian nuclear subs

From: [REDACTED]
Newsgroups: sci.military.naval
Subject: Re: Thermonuclear disaster-Russian nuclear subs
Date: Fri, 29 Sep 95 00:47:23 -0500
Organization: Delphi (info@delphi.com email, 800-695-4005 voice)
Lines: 9
Message-ID: <hzBgGPb.elde@delphi.com>

X-To: CZAR [REDACTED]

CZAR [REDACTED] writes:

>True. A nuclear reactor (any type) is incapable of producing a
>"yield" in the sense of a detonation. But the explosion of the Alfa >during refueling and resulting contamination makes this a moot point.

Sort of true... It will not produce a nuclear yield, but a steam explosion can scatter radioactives also....